The Lamp That Saves The Eyes

Children naturally never think of possible strain on their eyesight when poring over a fascinating book. It is up to you to see they do not ruin their young eyes these long evenings by reading under a poor light. The Rayo Lamp is an insurance against eye troubles, alike for young and old.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but it is constructed on the soundest scientific principles, and there is not a better lamp made at any price. It is easy on the eye because its light is so soft and white and widely diffused. And a Rayo Lamp never flickers.

Easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Solid brass throughout, with handsome nickel finish; also in many other styles and finishes.

Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of the

THE SERUM TREATMENT FOR HOG CHOLERA.

Hog cholera is getting in its deadly ravages in a good many sections, and a word about the serum treatment may be welcome to some who live in sections where the disease is spreading. A number of state legislatures have set aside a fund to cover the cost of the manufacture of the serum, the state veterinary department making the serum and selling it to farmers of the state at cost. The Nebraska Agricultural college at Lincoln has recently issued a timely little bulletin on the subject, and the following data, while taken from this publication, is of general interest and would apply to any section. To secure a serum of uniform quality it is necessary to mix the four bleedings from each hog, then mix those from a number of hogs and test carefully before sending out. It has been found that the serum costs 2 cents per cubic centimeter to make, while the dose recommended is twenty cubic centimeters per 100 pounds of hog and for pigs weighing less than 100 pounds. On this basis the treatment for a hog weighing 300 pounds would cost $1.20, which is an expense surely justifiable on a hog selling at $5 per hundredweight and particularly so in the case of valuable pure bred animals. The pamphlet in question suggests calling a qualified veterinarian at once on the appearance of sickness resembling cholera in the herd, the killing of a sick pig and ascertaining the real character of the disease at once by a postmortem examination. Unless the disease is indicated the serum should not be given, as it would render the hogs immune but three or four weeks. It is of no use to give a sick hog the treatment. Only well hogs that have been exposed to cholera should receive the injection of serum. Otherwise a lasting immunity will not result. Some hogs that have had the serum in their systems several days will likely die in spite of the treatment. Where one cannot secure the aid of a veterinary surgeon the farmer can treat the hogs himself provided he exercises the necessary precautions.

The hogs should be in a dry, clean place at least twenty-four hours before receiving the treatment. In addition to the serum, which should have been got direct from the state veterinary department, and one should have a ten cubic centimeter syringe, the hog to be treated should have the inside of the thighs washed thoroughly with a 5 per cent solution of some good coal tar dip, and the serum should be injected deeply into the muscles, not over twenty cubic centimeters being put in one place. The serum may be injected just under the skin of the abdomen, but it is not so readily absorbed. The bulletin above referred to does not make reference to it, but a point that should be emphasized is the wisdom of steering clear of serums advertised at a bargain price by irresponsible firms. No serum should be used except that furnished by the state veterinary department or a firm recommended by it.

WHAT TO EXPECT OF THEM.

Thousands of boys and girls have left home within the past two or three weeks to begin their first year in some special school or college. They are looking forward to their school course with high hopes, and those at home who in most cases are making the higher training possible justly feel much pride in the progress and growth which the son or daughter will make. The "folks at home" have done and, so far as is possible, will continue to do their part. It is therefore up to the individual student to do his or hers. This may include doing some outside work to help pay one's way, a thing likely to be less pleasant at the time than in later years when one looks back upon it. Going away to college does not mean that those who have the privilege are under a new dispensation morally, as many students seem to infer. The same laws hold that do at home, and their violation brings misery and their observance satisfaction and peace. Hundreds of boys and girls have gone adrift in life through ignoring this simple truth. Then it is well to keep in mind that advanced education should mean increased responsibility and gratitude, not breed contempt and disdain for the plain folks at home. Sympathy rather than a desire to serve are the earmarks of all true culture and education, and the boy or girl who does not purposefully try to develop these and kindred traits not only misses the chief and high purpose of college training, but in a large measure the very goal of all worthy living.

HOW MUCH WILL IT HOLD?

Many a farmer who has a silo, as well as many farmers who are going to build silos, would like to know how to get at the volume and weight of the fodder which a silo of given size will hold. For instance, how many tons of fodder will a silo having a size of 16 by 32 hold? The first step is getting the area of the base, which is obtained by multiplying the diameter by itself and that by .7854. Using this formula with the dimensions mentioned, we have 16 by 16 by .7854, which gives 201.0624 square feet. The cubic contents are then got by multiplying this by the height, thirty-two feet, which gives 6433.9 cubic feet. It has been found that a cubic foot of settled silage weighs forty-three pounds on the average in silos less than thirty-six feet in height; hence multiplying the cubic contents by the weight per foot, forty-three pounds, gives the total weight of the contents, or 277,061 pounds, and dividing this by 2,000 gives the number of tons, in this case 138.5. With these figures at hand it is easy to figure out how many loads of thirty pounds per day a silo of a given size will furnish a herd of dairy cows.

TO TELL POISON IVY.

A great many attractive things have danger for those who come in contact with them. Among those in the natural world is poison ivy, which in the fall in most sections is one of the most brilliantly colored vines to be found. Many boys and girls and not a few older people do not know the vine, and wonder about it is place. The most important distinctive feature about it is that it has three leaves in a cluster instead of five, as in the case of the well known Virginia creeper, which, though to be found in wood lots all over the country, is frequently used as a porch climber. Another mark of the poison ivy is the cluster of numerous small whitish berries which it bears, not at all like the purple berries of the Virginia creeper. In spite of its name the poison ivy does very little climbing, but rather sprawls and, as a rule, is a short vine, making comparatively slight growth in a single season. It cannot stand cultivation and hence is most often found along river courses, in pasture lots and in fence rows and corners.

AN INDEFENSIBLE INJUSTICE.

Another big government land drawing has just been pulled off in Dakota, and again has there been brought to the mind of the thinking person the rank injustice which is perpetrated as a result of the manner in which the drawings are managed. The point we have in mind has nothing to do with whether or not the parcels of land apportioned are worth what the lucky folks pay for them in the end. The most glaring injustice lies in compelling all citizens but old soldiers and soldiers' widows who wish to make application for land to pay car fare to and from and hotel bills at the point where the drawing is to take place. It goes without saying that many who register in this manner for such drawings can ill afford to do so, while it is even more clear that thousands of the

Sparkling Eyes.

A STORY

Many otherwise beautiful women have been neglected by nature with a lack of glossy, lustrous, dark eyebrows; many Blonders of True Norse-mantype with beautiful eyes cannot show them off to an advantage through lack of dark, heavy, lustrous eyebrows. To meet a universal and popular demand among the fair sex we have after much experimenting produced a compound termed "DABRO" consisting of harmless Organic Substances, Essential Oils, Balsams, etc., yielding by our process a stiff emulsion which will stimulate growth of the eyebrows and darken them to the desired shade.

Harmful Eyebrow Pencil.

Should be discarded as they only tend to envelope your hair with a film of greasy matter, preventing access of fresh air and thus to your detriment serve the opposite purpose for which you had intended them—namely, beautifying yourself.

A more modern, absolutely harmless, hygienic and effective medium is.

"Dabro"

It will not only stimulate growth of your Eyebrows and darken them if too light, but will produce a luster and glossiness not duplicated by any other means. We guarantee that Dabro will do what we claim for it if used as directed or we will cheerfully refund your money.

Dabro will be sent in plain wrapper to any address in the U. S. upon receipt of 50 cents in silver.

Guaranteed under U. S. Pure Food and Drug Act.

PUEBLO, COLORADO.

A CLIPPING BUREAU.

An arrangement that would cost practically nothing and yet would be a real aid to the husbandman would be an envelope clipping system, which would consist merely in cutting out timely and helpful paragraphs and articles from news and agricultural papers and classifying them by means of an envelope system, one envelope being devoted to all the clippings referring to a given subject. The several envelopes could then be plainly labeled on the outside, which would make it an easy job to look up in a short time all the matter having to do with a given topic. Many a farmer already has such a system in operation, and many others would find the plan practical and helpful.
